

Alien Veterans to Get Pensions

Veterans who were discharged as aliens during World War I, may be entitled to pension or compensation as a result of a law signed by President Eisenhower on July 28.

Prior to the law, World War I veterans discharged as aliens were required to prove that they did not request their own discharge. The new act presumes these veterans did not request their own discharge unless the government established proof

Let's Dispose of the Disposal

We are appalled to discover that many of the trampolines upon which our youth cavort are, in actuality, not trampolines at all. They are specimens of rebound tumbling equipment.

Trampoline is a trade mark of a specific product, the maker of which is bound to hang on to it. Thus another letter from an attorney goes into the round file, along with those from agencies seeking to protect words like Coke, Deepfreeze, Kodak, and Frigidaire.

Jeep and Disposal always should be capitalized but rarely are. Jeep is as proper a name as galaxie.

There is a Disposal proper and a disposal improper, the latter obviously was devised to connote that the product will do away with anything (unless you've tried stuffing it with the innards of a pumpkin).

But the public, with its mania for embracing what is wrong (look what happened to aluminium), took the Disposal to its heart, dropped an "l," and knocked down the capital D.
